

“ We are grateful to have lots of great registered varieties to choose from. To me, it’s not worth the risk of developing trade or trust issues by growing a de-registered product. ”

- MELISSA DAMIANI, grower near Bluffton, AB
Canola, feed barley, hay and forages, and wheat

Growing registered canola varieties is an important part of assuring our export customers that the oil and meal quality, biotech traits and disease resistance in our canola crop meet their requirements.

Learn more and find a list of de-registered varieties at keepitclean.ca/canola/deregistered

 @KICCanada

